

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE. A HEATH FARMER LOSES HIS HOME

On Saturday last about noon the farm home of Mr. Edward Thomas was completely destroyed by fire. The flame, it is said, originated in the chimney. A terrific gale was blowing and despite the efforts to save the building it burned to the ground in a very short time.

Part of the contents of the home were saved by Mr. Thomas' efforts, such as, piano, beds, and some other provisions and no lives were lost. The neighbors collected as quickly as possible to render what assistance they might but before their arrival the house was falling in.

The ruined house was situated two miles east of Heath, close to the G. T. P. Railway, and the owner was one of the farmers of the district, getting into fairly well established conditions when this catastrophe occurred. It is most unfortunate that it should happen at the busiest and most important time of the year for a farmer, when so much depends on his getting the crop in successfully.

A week ago, Mr. J. C. Forsythe, also had the misfortune to lose everything on his homestead by fire. He lost his home, horse harness, hay and oats. A prairie fire swept over the district, and through this Mr. Forsythe sustained his loss. This farm is in the Gilt Edge community.

WEEK-END TRIP TO EDMONTON BY AUTOMOBILE

Last Saturday O. E. Peterson, who has recently moved to Edmonton to live, transferred the remainder of his property, his Maxwell car, overland to that city. He was accompanied by a representative of the STAR. They went by way of Vermilion along the C. N. R. touching amongst other towns Vegreville and Fort Saskatchewan.

Like many other automobile adventures, while going north from town and about half way to Vermilion they had the extreme pleasure of dropping into one of those mud holes which seemed to have no bottom to it. After many vain attempts of man power to launch the car they had to call in aid of the common horse, which revealing superior power soon landed the Maxwell on dry land again.

Up to this point the roads were rough and progress was slow, but after getting into Vermilion territory, which they speak of as "The Premier's Constituency" things took a sudden change for the better. Roads were smoother and well kept culverts were in at every necessary point; the country seemed to be a regular network of rural telephone wires, and everything looked extremely prosperous.

Leaving Vermilion and territory behind on the east and getting along by Innisfree and Ranfurly, roads began to get rough again and the country showed signs of much alkali, but they were nevertheless able to keep the car above ground and get through.

Just outside Ranfurly they struck an excellent piece of road and were loath to leave it to go into the town to enquire the way and so kept on for a considerable distance, when to their dismay they found, that if they had kept on in the direction they were going they would have reached Wainwright again about night fall. After this adding about fourteen miles to the trip they retraced their steps to Ranfurly and descended to ask the way.

They were now put upon the road which led them to the prettiest town along the C. N. R., Fort Saskatchewan. Evidently the town has had a clean-up day recently, for they tell us that, not a scrap of paper bigger than a postage stamp could they find anywhere in the streets, nor could they smell a garbage can in any back lane or see a rubbish heap on any vacant lot.

Warning to Auto Drivers

A number of complaints are being laid against auto drivers operating cars on the streets of Wainwright. It seems they are reckless in their speed and method especially in turning corners. Persons on the crossings or verchelo meeting at the crossings are in danger of being knocked down.

There is a provincial law governing this matter, which auto owners and auto drivers should do well to acquaint themselves with. If they look up sections nineteen and twenty of the Motor Vehicles Act, they will find a warning there, which if they heed, will perhaps save them a great deal of trouble and expense. Penalties are attached to "speeding" on streets or corners in town village, or city.

CHICKEN STEALING

The adept chicken thieves have made another successful "get away". They visited the coupe of W. C. Bowen at an early hour last Sunday morning and made their escape with the entire contents not a sound was heard from the feathered flock nor the robber band, by the Bowen family or neighbors.

They were not satisfied with common chicken or rooster. They swiped the setting hens, taking them right off their nests. Recently it is said, Mr. Bowen had paid five dollars a piece for these setters, and the little chicks were due to arrive the following day. These little chicks perhaps they considered rather young for their purpose so left them in the shell. Had they been fully hatched in all probability they too would have been the victims of the swoop. We are glad to know that Mr. Bowen was successful in getting foster mothers for the expected flock and they may yet survive the shock and live to tell the tale of their narrow escape from the hand of the "common, low down, dirty thieves."

The following night the premises of Mr. J. McAdie, in the west end of the town, were raided and sixteen chickens carried off. This is the second time the thieves have visited Mr. McAdie.

Mr. F. W. Fish of the Wainwright Sheet Metal Works has transformed a Roa car into a very handy delivery wagon for his business, thus supplanting the horses. This new truck enables him to carry with him all tools, ladders and materials necessary for his job wherever he may want to go. Good idea.

ection they were going they would have reached Wainwright again about night fall. After this adding about fourteen miles to the trip they retraced their steps to Ranfurly and descended to ask the way.

Evidently the town has had a clean-up day recently, for they tell us that, not a scrap of paper bigger than a postage stamp could they find anywhere in the streets, nor could they smell a garbage can in any back lane or see a rubbish heap on any vacant lot.

From The Fort to Edmonton was their real pleasure trip, a distance of about twenty miles. The roads were like macadam all the way and the scenery was beautiful.

FOUR BURIED WHEN CYCLONE TURNS HOUSE OVER

A terrific cyclone swept over the farm of M. C. Mitchell, three miles, north east of town on Tuesday evening doing considerable damage to house, farm machinery that happened to be within reach of the rotary gale.

Mr. W. Sharp and his family who were occupying the hired man's shack close to the Mitchell home, had a very narrow and miraculous escape. Mr. Mitchell who describes the scene cannot conceive how they escaped with their lives except by a providential plan.

The shack in which the Sharps were living was fifteen nine feet in the air rotated several times, then turned completely up side down, landed on the ground, roof first, at a place about ten yards from where it originally stood.

Mitchell who ran to the rescue of the family, on arriving at the upturned shack found Mr. Sharp, his wife and two children, buried under stove furniture and oilcloth. Mr. Sharp himself was pinned underneath the big stove. Mitchell succeeded in extricating the unfortunate family through the windows and took them into his home where they all went down cellar remaining there until the storm ceased.

During the storm, large planks and stones the size of a man's feet were seen to be carried around in the air like bits of chaff, so great was the gale. The Mitchell home was practically untouched and it is only a matter of a few yards from the other unfortunate shack. Considerable damage was done, however, to his farm property.

A GOOD RECORD

Mr. McLeod of Heath has received a letter from his brother-in-law, John Aitken, in which he states that he has secured a well earned leave of absence, to visit friends in Scotland. Mr. Aitken has been in active service for the past nineteen months and during the past twelve months has never missed an engagement. It is one of the big records in service for king and country. Aitken was getting pretty thin and worn out through long service and well deserves a few months furlough.

Last week Bud Simmerman with two new McLaughlin cars made the trip from Edmonton to Wainwright in ten hours without any mishaps. These two cars he had already sold. Both were 'D' 45's, one for W. SUMMER RESORT FOR WAINWRIGHT OPENED BY JUNE

Mott Lake is the coming summer resort for the people of Wainwright. The government hopes to have it in shape for campers by June of this year. Already work is in progress on the beach, surveying lots and cleaning up the shores. According to the park superintendent, under whose supervision the work is being done, sixty five lots will be on sale on the first day of June.

The lake, known as Mott lake, is situated within the Buffalo Park enclosure, and can be reached only through the Park keeper's place and by permission of the superintendent, but in the near future will be accessible to campers and tourists by a private road opened by the Dominion government.

Various attractions will be provided for campers and visitors. On a promontory running out into the lake, swings are being provided for the children, booths for picnic parties and various other attractions will be furnished. These improvements and camping facilities, and especially the short distance of the lake from town, bid fair to making this one of the most if not the most popular summer resort for the people of Wainwright and for many others from outside points.

PTE. LIVINGSTONE WRITES INTERESTING LETTER TO PARENT

A letter from Pte. Neil Livingstone to his mother gives an interesting and graphic description of his experience in the big battle in which he participated and was wounded in three places, the leg, arm and back. He is now in a hospital in England and recovering successfully. He considers England a fine place to be in after the everlasting rain and mud of France and the terrible scenes of the murderous war. His letter in part runs something as follows:

"I'm feeling pretty well but am still in bed. An x-ray examination revealed a piece of shrapnel in my back which will mean an operation. The other wounds are healed over and do not bother me. We are receiving splendid treatment here. The nurses and everyone could not be nicer. There are quite a number of Canadians here. We had no choice of where we would like to go, but this place is fine.

"April 9th will always be remembered, for it was the opening of the biggest battle of the war, and we were over the top right at the start. The fire of our artillery was awful for the Fritz, and he was giving it back with machine guns. We went over at 5.30 in the morning on a twelve mile front. The Canadians were all in it. Their casualties must be heavy for we lost 600 out of 1000 in two hours, but we advanced two miles and the way the 'quack heads' were slaughtered was great.

"I fired thirty shots and they were not all misses either. Our artillery just flattened their trenches out and then the Fritz started running. They are the dirtiest bunch God ever let live, and you can believe most of the stories you hear of them. They mowed our fellows down with their machine guns until we got within a few yards of them, then up went their hands, crying 'Mercy Comrade'. They did not get much mercy that morning.

Coming back over the ground is when you curse the war. You see fellows you know lying all around dead. The shell holes that morning were all full of water but at night they were all red with human blood. I've seen sights that I won't forget till I die, sights that I don't like to think about, but here in England it is nice and I will get awhile away from it."

"We were relieved on the night of April the 9th, but went at it again on the 12th. This night Fritz was shelling us heavily. We were in a woods near the remains of a village. The big trees were crashing down around from the shells and finally one shell hit right among us killing two and wounding many. We were all partly buried too.

"A fellow helped me walk about half a mile, then I was put on a stretcher as I could not go any farther. His too bad to see these shell shock cases. I saw fellows crying like little kids for hours at a time and could not stop. When brave fellows' nerves go like that you can imagine what the scrap was like. I was not bothered with shock at all. Martin was O K when I left."

Neil Livingstone.

The postponed K. of P. Picnic will be held at Clear Lake May 24th all Knights take notice of the date.

Annual Meeting Methodist Church

A very pleasing and encouraging meeting was held in Grace Methodist Church last Thursday night when the annual congregational social was held. Several musical numbers were given and reports presented from the different departments of the work of the church. Seven of the members have enlisted and still larger number of the adherents. The report of the Sunday School showed the largest attendance in its history the financial report of the church was not complete as a goodly number of subscriptions had not yet been paid but the sum of $1955 was reported. The membership returns showed that sixteen new members had been received during the year. The report of the Ladies Aid and the choir, indicated the splendid and efficient service rendered by these organizations. After the receiving of the reports, ice cream and cake were served. The people of Grace church closed their annual gathering feeling much encouraged by the prospect for future.

CATTLE LAW TO BE STRICTLY ENFORCED SAYS MAYOR GREEN

"The town By-law, governing the impounding of cattle and all stray animals will be strictly enforced as far as it is in the power of the council and public authorities to do so," says Mayor Greer, in an interview at the STAR Office a few days ago.

Every citizen who has heard the call of Empire to greater production and has gone to considerable expense and is devoting much of his spare time to gardening, will appreciate this stand of the mayor and council. In the past many a splendid garden has been ruined by wandering cattle and horses, to the great annoyance and loss of the owner.

If such should be permitted this year it would be more exasperating than ever on account of the greater need for garden produce and it is to be hoped that not only the cattle owners will feel their responsibility to their neighbours, to keep their cattle in bounds, but that every individual citizen will co-operate with the authorities in the enforcement of this law, by reporting any stray animals that come within their vision.

Owners of animals might profit by it if they looked up the penalties attached to the pound laws of the town.

CROP REPORT

According to the crop reports for Northern Alberta published in the big dailies, Wainwright district seems to be showing up pretty well. A big percentage of the wheat and oats are already sown. A drive in any direction from town will show that wheat on many farms is above the ground four or five inches. So far the prospects are very bright for a good crop, while some farmers, owing to the lateness of the season, are not sowing as much wheat as last year, yet it is estimated that the total average is about the same, and oats a great deal more.

GARDENING THE WORK OF THE HOUR

THE CITIZENS of Wainwright were willing, last Thursday, to comply with the proclamation of the Mayor to "clean up" but wind and weather did not co-operate, consequently, much was left undone which might otherwise have been done. We have the satisfaction, however, of knowing that every day may be clean-up day, and whatever was not done on Thursday may be done on any Thursday or any day of the year.

Let it be remembered also, that all outdoor clean-up, is only preliminary to garden planting. Most people, especially in times like these, are alive to the duties and responsibilities of food production, and are anxious to have as much fresh vegetable products as possible. It is a pleasure to notice that more people than ever and people who have had no previous experience, in the town have taken to the spade.

People, too, we notice, with a sense of the beautiful, are anxious to have a bit of green sod and a flower bed somewhere surrounding the home. The times are dull and depressing, certainly, and one of the ways to effectively counteract that feeling that comes over us at times would be to have a town ablaze with flowers and redolent with their sweet perfume.

ALBERTA'S DELINQUENCY PROBLEM

THE ANNUAL government report of the department of neglected and dependant children of the province has recently been issued and contains information regarding the work being done in the conservation of delinquent children.

It is the avowed object of this department to secure as far as possible, orphans, the children of parents who are incapable of looking after their own offspring, or who have become criminals, in order that they may have an opportunity to develop into sturdy, healthy men and women.

The report of the department shows, that during the past year 981 dependent children and 500 delinquents were brought under its care. There are four "shelters" or the homes maintained, one in each of the largest cities of the Province, where boys and girls are detained and cared for temporarily until suitable homes are secured for them in the country or elsewhere according to the child's own temperament. This "placing out system" is emphasised by the department as it is found that in these adopted homes the conditions are more normal and the child develops normally. In the Wainwright district there are a few homes that have adopted children in this way and have secured splendid help, and at the same time have given a chance in life to the boys or girls under their care.

War has had its effect on delinquency. It has increased about 30 p. c. during 1916, due no doubt amongst other things to neglect of parental control, while many fathers are at the front. This increase is amongst the boys. The spirit of adventure and the war fever having led them into many offences making it necessary to place them under the care of the Department.

CONTROL OF GARDEN INSECTS

THE ENTOMOLOGICAL BRANCH of the Dominion Department of Agriculture will issue in May Circular No. 9 on "Common Garden Insects and their Control." This publication includes an account of the more important insect pests of the vegetable and flower garden. It has been prepared for wide distribution at this time when everywhere throughout Canada efforts are being earnestly made to increase the production of vegetable foods, etc., in back yards, vacant lots and other areas near cities and towns. The remedial measures of controlling the common destructive species and also formulae for the making of the chief insecticides are given. For easy reference the insects are grouped under this publication a most useful means for solving many troubles that will arise. Application for this Entomological Circular No. 9, should be made to the Chief of the Publication Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Insects concerning which further information is desired should be sent with a covering letter to the Dominion Entomologist, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Packages and letters so addressed up to 11 ounces in weight may be forwarded free of postage.

THE U. F. A. SUNDAY

MOST ORGANIZATIONS have their special Church Sunday. For many of them, it is doubtless, a good thing, for it affords the only one such experience of the year. The United Farmers of Alberta have also set aside one Sunday for special services to be conducted in the interest of their organization. To the Alberta farmers indeed belongs the honor inaugurating this movement. Last year was their first attempt. This year they plan a big day on Sunday May 27th. So highly pleased with the idea was their sister institution in Saskatchewan, that they have decided to follow the example of the Alberta Farmers this year.

It is fitting that the Farmers' organization, above all others should have its special church Sunday, for it is said that of all others, the tiller of the soil should be the most deeply religious. His very profession brings him close to nature and consequently he is impressed with fundamental truths and realizes the futility of superficial things. Away from the distracting noises of the city with "the blue above and the green beneath" no man has more or better opportunity for reflection and self analysis, for Bible study and church-going.

President H. W. Wood of the Alberta Union believing that no matter what a man's orthodox opinions may be, he cannot afford to ignore the teachings of Christianity, and that it is the teachings of Christ will be found the one and only key to the true and final adjustment of human affairs, social economic and political, calls upon the farmers of the Province to ally themselves with the church, on one day in the year, at least, the 27th day of May 1917. On that day local unions throughout the Province, are asked to secure the services of some minister or ministers to address them on some topic which deals with the relation of Christianity to the economic problem. Arrangements are already underway for a big day in Wainwright.

RESERVE POWER

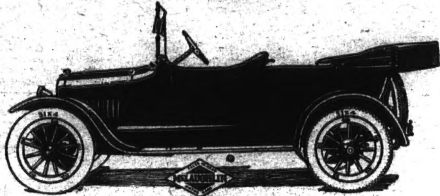

THE McLaughlin valve-in-head motor actually develops from 15% to 20% more power with the same fuel consumption than any other type of motor of the same bore and stroke. This fact has been established by engineers, by block tests and tests in actual service. This means fuel economy and power.

Because this power is sometimes vital, it is found in abundance in McLaughlin Motor Cars, ready for instant application. It is "RESERVE POWER" and makes the dependable and efficient car.

Canadian Women Return

When it is possible to write it, one of the most interesting chapters of our year history will describe how Canadian soldiers in England, and how many of them, who for many reasons would be much better off in their own country, were returned to the Dominion.

A great effort towards effecting this has just been accomplished by the result that hundreds of women and children who had come to the United States and England as one of the first steps in their resettlement brought upon them, will ere long be breathing once more the streets of Canada.

To overawe Belgium German troops acting under orders performed their sordid task of ruthlessness in Louvain; they slaughtered children, outraged women, and burned the city. They turned the city into a shambles and after thirty-two months the soul of Belgium remains unconquered and the sound of the guns grows nearer to the ruins of Louvain.

To paralyze Russia, German spies and German agent corrupted British generals, sowed the Russian civil war, and even enlisted Russian autocracy and royalty, and today Russia is in fact a republic and the voice of the Russian people has repudiated the treason of Russian leadership.

To terrorize Britain Zeppelins were sent over London and many innocent

It was a motley crowd, from all points of view, which the authorities dealt with, and the labor connected with the applications was truly gigantic. The work was done, however, in double quick time. However, everything is successfully accomplished, and when the full revelation of all the details is permissible, it will make one of the most interesting

The British empire have been cemented by the blood of Britons and Colonials alike, shed in the same cause.

Great Britain, Italy, Roumania, the United States, each of the great nations of the western world, have adopted a neutrality which had become impossible; there has been a plebiscite of peoples, and the verdict of mankind is that the nations have chosen to die, men of many races, have risked the supreme hazard, and

Not War, But Soul

A War Being Fought for the Right of the People's

Since this is a people's war, we must recognize that it is fought for the people's rights.

And if ever it was the duty of nation to fight for the people's right that duty rests on America today.

In other lands traditions may unite

There is no device known to materialistic civilization, to scientific and organized civilization, that the great American people have used the hospitality of other nations to plant treason within their borders; he has endeavored to turn one man against another, to turn one man against his neighbor, by terrorism, by intrigue, by violence he has sought to undermine the liberties or to subdue the spirit of mankind. In Europe as in America, his day is over. He lay shrouded in darkness to turn nations against each other, he has offered to Italy provinces of France as he has offered Mexico states of our nation; he has corrupted, cheated, murdered, robbed.

His terrorism has aroused the courage of those he sought to intimidate hands and the wills of those he sought to paralyze. His corruption, his intrigue, have but united those his inviolable turn against each other.

he sought to turloughast each other, his brutality and his barbarism have roused his opponents to a determination which broke the first rush of his hosts at the Marne and the Yser and which has been acknowledged by Germany.

What a monstrous thing this German action is! It is a monstrous and wholly colossal failure! The world has not been conquered, no part of it; no people among all the peoples of the world have been enslaved.

Monstrous! In the battle, however heavy the first blow Europe has been given with German dead, but the blow has not been only to Europe. The German calculation included all but the spirit of man, but the spirit of man has proven the decisive factor. Man is the factor that the German menace should not prevail, and we are seeing at last the ebullience of barbarism in the French fields near York Turn.

Raising a Mollified

the one who thinks we need no peace with Germany. The British are the people who are keeping our shores the enemies of mankind and who takes occasion in this place of safety to criticize the policy of protection he enjoys; the idealists on the contrary, if the world is to be saved, the British are the people who, in his person, undertakes to bear his part in protecting by the person the common and universal good of the world, the peace of the world, and to the pursuit of happiness against which Germany has been an enemy. It is making war.

It is making war. Some Americans have done America itself is now about to do. Instead of turning other people's heads, we are turning our own heads. We are turning our heads either mainly nor Christian), those who are serving the cause of democracy in the trenches of Europe. They are the ones who are the bodies, their own lives, before the enemy that steals of life may survive. —From the Outlook

There are, of course, differences of soil but, when people talk about making black garden this spring they might as well be reminded of the old saying, "You can't make a black gardener, last season." He planted pumpkins. They grew and he ate them. He never knew what struck him—Judge.

Great Discovery

"Will you have a sugared almond?" she asked sweetly, at the same time tendering the paper bag.

"Thank you, I will," replied her aunt. And as she was particular what she ate, so selected a white one.

"Auntie," said little Doris, "do you know the difference between the pink and the white almonds?"

"No dear," said auntie with a kindly smile.

"Well, I'll tell you," explained Doris. "The pink ones are all pink once, and I sucked all the pink off the white ones. Didn't I do it nicely?"—Youth's Companion.

Raising a Mollycoddie

"My nephew, Leslie Postlewaite Snicker, was his mother's pride and joy," said old Polk N. Frodd. "When he was a baby he was dressed in the daintiest garments until it was hard to determine whether he was his mamma's precious pet or a performing monkey."

"As Leslie grew up she selected his rickshaws and his associates with great care. He was until he grew to be as pronounced a sissy and painful sight as I ever witnessed. And then he was married to a girl who was a young widow, with four children and red hair, and never knew what struck him—Judge."

A Great Discoverv

Little Doris is very polite. The other children are not. They have their share of her candy.

"Will you have a sugared almond, Aunt Mary?" she asked suddenly, when the guests were seated at the dinner table.

"No, thank you," said the Duke.

"No, thank you," said the Duchess.

"No, thank you," said the Duke's

At last what some Americans have done America itself is now about to do. Instead of turning its back on the people's choice to the smelter (which is neither nearly nor Christian), those who are serving the cause of democracy in the trenches of Europe are laying their own checks, their own money orders, on the smelter, and the smelter that ideals of life may survive.—From the Outlook, N. Y.

What Happened in Kansas

There are, of course, differences of soil, but when people talk about Kansas, they are reminded of pumpkins. They might as well be reminded of something that happened to a Kansas farmer, who was a pumpkin grower. He planted pumpkins. They grew and they continued to grow until they ran over the neighborly fence and climbed the porch of the neighboring houses and trespassers upon the alley and the street and the highway. The pumpkins were with that man's pumpkins, at yet a petition was sent to the governor to have the law enforced to stop things this year. He refused.

"Thank you, I will," replied her aunt. And as she was particular what she ate, she selected a white one.

"Auntie," said little Doris, "do you know the difference between the pink and the white almonds?"

"No dear," said auntie with a kindly smile.

"Well, I'll tell you," explained Doris. "They were all pink once, and I sucked all the pink off the white ones. Didn't I do it nicely?"—Youth's Companion.

tourists on this trip. They could not but notice the condition of the crops along the way and observe how much further ahead of all others were those of the Wainwright district.

They also got a lesson in church going from the foreigners of Mundare and Bruderheim. Passing through the Galatin settlement early Sunday morning they found crowds of people on the roads literally black with people making their way to early mass in Mundare. In many cases some of the people walking seven and eight miles to get there. To one old lady they were able to extend the courtesy of a ride and by so doing shortened her six mile trip to mass.

Getting into the German settlement of Bruderheim and arriving at the little town they counted, at the German Church there, no less than thirty two automobiles that had conveyed that many German families "Nach Kirche." These cars were not all Fords either and besides these cars they counted eighteen teams that had also brought worshippers of "Der Vater Der da im Himmel bist." Impressed with this religious fervor they resolved that if they reached Edmonton in safety they would attend "divine service."

The motorists arrived in the capital about four o'clock Sunday afternoon. Weary with the all night journey they repaired to the Royal George, the home of the Wainwright visitors, and laid them down in a long quiet, restful, sleep.
